ABOUT VaLGITE

Founded in 1996, Virginia Local Government Information Technology Executives (VaLGITE) represents local government IT organizations through information sharing and relationship building.

Membership is open to county, city and town government technology leaders.

Connecting and Supporting Local Government
Technology Leaders

PURPOSE

- Promote progress in the information technology profession by providing Virginia local government IT leaders with the means for learning and exchanging information
- Promote and represent the interests of Virginia local government IT leaders
- Represent local government IT leaders in working with other organizations such as federal and state agencies, and vendors
- There are 95 counties and 38 independent cities/towns in Virginia. VaLGITE members include 81 counties, cities, and towns.

BENEFITS

- Increase local government capacity, representation and collaboration across the commonwealth
- Advocate for local government leaders with one voice to state agencies, vendors, and external stakeholders
- Networking and mentoring meetings, activities and events
- Facilitate collaboration and knowledge sharing among members

MEMBERSHIP

Membership dues support VaLGITE events and operations. VaLGITE is a non-profit organization led by local IT CIOs / directors.
